Any information would be highly appreciated. A: To the best of my knowledge, the JavaScript to generate the URL is embedded in the Flash player itself. I'm not really familiar with how to manipulate a Flash object in a different environment but perhaps someone else could help. This project is based on the observation that histone H1.4 is a component of the nucleosome core complex. It is retained at the inner loop of the nucleosome. The amount of this histone in cell free extracts is higher in proliferative cells. In this grant, we shall study several aspects of H1.4 structure and function in relation to its behavior in the nucleosome and its regulation by replication. A major goal is to isolate and characterize mutants defective in H1.4 structure and/or function. A detailed mutational analysis of the H1.4 molecule will also be conducted. To study replication, we will analyze the organization and structure of chromatin in relation to replication. Traditional ice cream cones are typically made with round ice cream cones which are frozen on a rotating cylindrical mandrel in the freezing and holding chamber. Because the ice cream cones are frozen only around the outer periphery of the cone, and because the center volume of the cone is insulated by the ice cream, the flavor of the ice cream is not readily accessible to the consumer, and oftentimes the ice cream is hard and has a grainy texture. Because of the method of manufacture, ice cream cones generally take about five minutes to freeze and only hold the ice cream around its outer perimeter. Thus, the flavor of the ice cream in the middle of the cone is not readily accessible to the consumer. In addition, U.S. Pat. No. 4,677,973 teaches a method of freezing a plurality of spaced-apart ice cream cones in the same batch of ice cream. This is accomplished by freezing the ice cream cones in open-ended cylindrical tubes, each with a smaller diameter than the previous, leaving the smaller end open-ended. The smaller open-ended end is then attached to a larger open-ended end such that the smaller diameter end is adjacent to the larger diameter end. This assembly of tubes has the disadvantage that there is not adequate insulation of the interior cone shape from the exterior cone shape during freezing so that the interior cones are not insulated from each other. The interior of the outermost cone will therefore have a lower freezing temperature than the interior of the innermost cone.
